

Language learners are language detectives. They...

- display curiosity about language and have a strong desire to create language
 - make connections and are quick to pick up new language and structures
 - spot patterns - classifying words and structures, solving problems and asking why
 - are imaginative with language
 - enjoy learning independently
 - have an insight into how they like to learn and are thus able to learn more efficiently
 - are often interested in culture
- 